STRAIGHT TO THE SOURCE: ROPE ACCESSORIES

Lark's raw creative director, Andrea Lorenz, has been inspired with all things nautical, and her collection of rope accessories, the first place she has seen rope used in jewelry—each piece is made by hand and decked out with an array of different colors and fabric options. From the chunky to the thin, there are a whole lot of ways you could have rope-inspired jewelry. They're all pretty special, especially since they're available at such an accessible, affordable price point.

Now's the time to head to SEATTLE: The weather's warm—and perhaps more important, reasonably dry—and three brand-new, urban-sophisticated indie boutiques have just opened.

LA REE BOUTIQUE

11 103RD AVE. NE, 425.453.7868

Expect edgy yet still girly clothing from labels like Alexander Wang, Sunner, and Jenni Kayne at this boudoir-ish (zebra-print ottomans, baroque-print wallpaper) Bellevue-area shop. Also on offer: sweet, giftable items like delicate gold jewelry by local designer Jamie Joseph and coolly packaged Apothia candles.
